

HIGHWAYMEN IN THE PARK.

George Lyons Robbed Even of His Shoes and Socks.

The Robbers and Their Victim Under Thirteen Years of Age.

George Lyons, a diminutive thirteen-year-old boy, who says he lives at 20 East Sixteenth street, climbed up to the bench of the Tombs Court this morning and poured into the ears of Justice Martin the thrilling story of how he had been waylaid, knocked down and robbed, not only of the money in his pocket, but also of his shoes and socks in City Hall Park a few hours before.

The two highwaymen whom he charged with the offense were Morris Lewis, of 25 Market street, known to his companions as "Red," and Abe Cohen, of 25 Delancey street. Both had reached the mature age of twelve years and are also newboys.

The prisoners started out on their career of crime late last night, when "Red" asked Abe to go some place and have a "smile" and the latter consented. According to their own story they proceeded to a dive on Roosevelt street, where they were to be paid for three cents. They liked it so well that Abe said, "Have one more glass, and then we'll go home."

That emptied their exchequer, and not caring to go home they decided to go to the park to sleep off the effect of their potations.

When they awoke this morning both were thirsty, and not having money enough to quench their thirst, they proceeded to procure some in the only manner possible.

A woman happened to be passing at the time, and with cloth impulse took advantage of her, and carried in her hand, but she held on so firmly and stoutly that the boys were unable to get the money.

The woman, who was badly frightened, walked hurriedly away.

Say, what are we going to do now, Cully?" asked Abe, and it was at that unlucky moment that young Lyons came in sight.

Abe was shoeless while Lyons wore a decent pair.

"There's your chance for a pair of shoes," cried Lyons, and both attacked the boy at once.

Lyons was knocked down, and while one of the young highwaymen went through his pockets and took the 50 cents, the other took off the boy's shoes, which he quickly put on.

Lyons, as soon as he got on his feet began to cry and then he started several times about the face until he was glad to run away.

NEW DEBATE NEWS

STARTED A RUN ON A BANK.

Clothier Hoke Got Frightened at a Silly Rumor.

Called Before the Committee and Lectured for His Conduct.

RUTHERFORD, N. J., June 22.—The excitement over the report that the People's Bank of Passaic, which has a branch here, had failed has entirely died out since the facts in the case were made public today.

It seems that a Hungarian who is a depositor and stockholder in the bank, surprised by a rumor, had been alarmed and causing a run on the bank.

The rumors reached Rutherford, and several depositors hurried to withdraw their money from the branch bank here, but this did not alarm the officials at all, and they met all demands promptly.

Clothier Hoke was arrested before the Executive Committee last night. He was told that he could be fined $500 or sent to prison for two years for alarming the public.

The banks have unfathomable resources.

FOUGHT IN THE COURT-ROOM.

Editor and Police Commissioner Come to Blows in Paterson.

Chair and Bouquet-Holder Wielded as Weapons.

PATERSON, N. J., June 22.—A free fight took place in the District Court at noon today during the trial of a suit brought by Edward B. Haines, editor of the Evening News, against William L. Bamber, President of the Call Printing Company, to recover $18, the amount of a bill alleged to be due for printing a portrait of Mr. Bamber's marble works and his biography in the centennial edition of The News.

Police Commissioner James C. Sigler was called in to settle the dispute.

Haines, in answer to the counsel's question he said he would not believe Haines under oath.

The editor jumped from his chair and with wild gesticulations denounced the Police Commissioner.

"You are a skunk!" retorted Sigler. "And you are a skunk!" retorted Sigler.

Mr. Sigler grabbed the bouquet holder on Judge Kerr's desk and rushed towards Haines.

He then armed himself with a chair and threw it at Sigler, who grappled with Haines and would have used him as a weapon.

When quiet was restored, Judge Kerr spoke severely to the combatants. He said that men who are supposed to be public officers should not behave in this manner.

Haines apologized to the Court and the trial was continued.

Mrs. Wells says she knows of no reason for his absence, and is almost heart-broken. She says if her son would only write her a line to say he is safe, she would be comparatively contented. She is very poor and cannot afford to search for him properly. She says George was a good boy and never before gave her any trouble.

My Wife and I

Believe that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and that it is to take a good medicine before one is sick, and thus save one time and expense.

Neither of us were real sick, but we had dull, heavy headaches, slight dizziness, and a general feeling of uneasiness.

We were very nervous. No one had been to take a dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and the effect was like magic and perfectly satisfactory.

restoring us to perfect health and preventing, I believe, severe sickness and bad doctors' bills.
